Dear District V Garden Club Members,

Here it is, another New Year. I hope each and every one of you are having a great New Year. Last year was a tremendous year! Some of the new things that we did turned out to be successful and I hope will continue to be. I don't know how we can top 2014 but I think as garden club members we are always thinking of new and inventive ways of doing things. Of course, we keep some of our favorite traditions that we love, also. I hope that 2015 will be a wonderful blend of old and new, making this one of the best years in District V.

In continuing to keep with my theme – “Plant a Seed to Grow – Preserve the Past, Embrace the Present and Plant a Seed for the Future”, I want to finish up my term as district director with “Plant a Seed for the Future”. Many of the clubs in District V are already ahead of the game with their programs on recycling, water conservation and especially the saving of our birds, butterflies and bees. Others are sponsoring junior garden clubs, giving programs to schools and making the public aware of the new and exciting projects that garden club has to offer. It is my wish that each garden club in District V will continue to plant these seeds to grow for the future and pass on this great legacy that is TGC.

If you were not able to attend the District V Fall Meeting, you missed a great time. I cannot remember when I have had so much fun learning. I want to congratulate Marlene Gillman and her committee on the excellent meeting. I can hardly wait to see what they have planned this year. Be sure and make a note to plan on attending the District V Fall Meeting in Temple this fall. You will not be disappointed.

Don't forget that I am still continuing the District V Ring of Honor to be presented at the District V Spring Meeting March 4th in Austin. There are two different Rings of Honor – the Iris Ring of Honor for members that have been members of TGC for Twenty-five years and the Rose Ring of Honor that recognizes those that have been members of TGC for fifty years. I know that there are several who were not honored last year, so now is the time to send their names into me.

Now is the time to mark your calendar for Wednesday, March 4th as this is our District V spring Meeting to be held at Zilker Park in Austin. Sandra Holt, president of the Violet Crown Garden club, and her committee have been planning an excellent meeting which includes a tour of Zilker Park as the main program. This meeting will be a little more formal than the fall meeting because we need to do some business, give out awards and install the new District V officers for 2015 – 2017. But in no way will it be dull. Look for the registration information in this newsletter and sign up today.

And while you are filling in your calendar, don't forget the upcoming TGC Spring Convention April 19-23 in Tyler. Those of us who attended the fall state convention in Abilene got to see a glimpse of things to come with this convention. I cannot think of a better place in the springtime than Tyler with their rose gardens and nurseries. I know I can hardly wait. Plus, this will be the meeting where our newly elected District V Director will be installed along with a new state president, her officers and the rest of the district directors. If you have never attended a state convention and you like bling, this is the one for you.

I am looking forward to continuing to visit several garden clubs, either giving herb programs or just enjoying meeting new friends. And even though the calendar says it is just February, spring will be here before we know it. Here is wishing you a very rewarding garden club year, keeping with my motto – if you can learn something that will encourage you, meet a new friend and have a good time, then it has been a successful day. Hope to see many of you in the coming months. Sherry

Where Were You?

An Editorial by Marlene Gillman

When your club last hosted a district event, did you sit on pins and needles as slow registration threatened the financial success of the venture? Did you lament to your fellow club members how disappointed you were that other clubs did not answer the call to your “long planned” event? No one understands how hard your club worked to plan and host this event! Why wasn’t every club represented? We have all felt this disappointment, but in the next club year were you there for your sister club to support their efforts?

We don’t want to call it apathy, but for lack of a better word maybe it applies. Most of us in garden club are of a generation that was raised with a strong sense of commitment and appreciation of gatherings at church, family, community or club events. What has happened to that sense of duty and commitment? Along with good manners are we going to fall victim to the present generations’ lack of commitment? Has our casual society eroded the appreciation of a clubs’ efforts to support garden club district meetings? I bet the majority of our district members have never attended one of our seasonal meetings – yet we work so hard to make them appealing and educational to all the members.

It’s time to make an effort! Twice a year we meet – two days out of 365 and you can’t find the time to support the people who work so hard to keep this wonderful district – vital and growing? We plan, plot, and produce fantastic meetings with the garden member in mind. Please don’t sit at home and let life pass you by. Come join the happy group of gardeners for our next District Meeting on March 4th in Austin. Our generation must set the example!

Do You Have the Winter Doldrums?

If you are suffering from the “Winter Doldrums” and can’t seem to get focused on any one thing – maybe we can recommend a worthy diversion. Landscape Design School II is now taking enrollment reservations for their February classes. Scheduled for Monday and Tuesday the 23rd and 24th of February, the classes are held at the George Bush Library in College Station from 8:30 am to 4:30 pm. The four courses are designed to be initiated at any stage so shake off the glooms and get a “kick start” to the gardening season. The content is a journey enlightening the student to gardening history, new and old theories, and wonderful power points of beauty and design. Taught by TAMU professors and supplemented with guest speakers from the southern states, every school offers wonderful educational material for every gardener.

The two day course includes continental breakfast, lunch, snacks and beverages for both days in the tuition fee of $145.00. Garden club members can make reservations without penalty of late fee up to February 20th. Canvas your club and come as a group and make it a girls’ overnighter. With the decreased cost of gas those of you in the Zone II area could easily carpool in each morning and do the school on a shoestring. Don’t miss out on this opportunity to broaden your knowledge and brighten these winter days with plans of your dream garden. (See the following page for the registration form)

Do not delay!

If You Could Be of Assistance

In the next few months our in-coming District Director, Suzanne Milstead, will be making calls to fill her Board of Directors. This board consists of district members who are willing to help with the smooth running of our district. This may be in the manner of judging a particular award or serving on a committee to evaluate scholarship applicants. No one job is difficult, but if we do not share the load they fall to the few who are willing. A term is 2 years and the job or jobs usually only take an afternoon (2 hours) to judge and send it on to the next level. For awards Marlene Gillman will be on board to advise and most of the chairmanships are simple and straightforward and the former holder willing to advise. Please be open to serving and say yes when asked.

Thank You

Happenings on Iris Hill

By Sherie Clarkson

Burr!!! I do believe old man winter is here and he plans on staying awhile. I knew deep down that those sunny 70 degree days recently were just a tease before it turned cold and icy. Well, fear not as this is the time to bring out all the gardening catalogs that have been coming in the mail and plan for the future. One of the good things about cold weather (if there is such a thing) is that I now have time to actually read those gardening books and catalogs that I have been collecting all year. There is a reason for everything and winter is the time to take a break and kick back. To sit in front of a nice fire with a cup of hot tea and a stack of gardening material and start planning for the future is a perfect wintertime activity. Throw a couple of football games and the new series of Downton Abby and it will make the dark, cold days of winter better.

And since the calendar says it is February, my thoughts always turn to roses. No, not the kind you get for Valentine's Day, however I would never turn those down, but the bare-root plants that I ordered months ago. Of course, they always seem to show up on my door step during the coldest day of the year. You know you are a gardener when you are out in the garden in February planting rose bushes when the temperatures are hovering around freezing. Through the years, however, I have learned that you can keep the bare-root roses in a cool place just fine until a nice sunny day. That is why a gardener is always learning. Don't forget this is the time of year to also prune your roses. Even the antique roses will appreciate a little trim now. And don't forget to plan a regular feeding schedule for your roses. They are heavy feeders and need the right nutrition to produce those wonderful blooms. After all my years of growing roses, I have developed my own plan for feeding roses and with what materials and I can say it makes a difference. If you would like a copy of my rose feeding schedule, let me know and I will send you a copy.

With more and more being written about alternative medicines to keep us healthy, people are becoming more aware of the fact that Vitamin C helps prevent colds. Now, there are several good sources of Vitamin C in everyday fruits and vegetables, but why not try something different. This winter, to ward off those winter colds, try using rose hips to get your daily requirement of Vitamin C. By drinking several cups of Rose Hip Tea each day, you will get your recommended dose of Vitamin C. Make sure your hips come from organically grown roses and add a little honey for added benefits and sweetness.

Rose Hip Tea

1 tsp. dried rose hips (Rubrifolia or Rosa Rugosa have the biggest ones but any variety will work)

For each cup of tea, put 1 teaspoon of dried rose hips into a teapot.

Add very hot water (not boiling, to preserve the Vitamin C) and allow to stand several minutes, covering the teapot with a cozy or thick towel.

Enjoy!

Also, this is the time of year that a gardener needs to walk around their yard and look at the structure. This is a good opportunity to think about adding a walkway, a retaining wall or a great piece of garden art. It is much easier to visualize these now. Of course don't forget to look for those first small signs of spring peeking their heads out of the ground. I know when I start seeing the first daffodils or crocus blooming, spring cannot be far behind. If you have not planted bulbs in the past, make a note to plant some this fall and you will be rewarded next spring. So, until next time, happy gardening.

Congratulations are in Order

Our own Eleanor Floeck was honored as Texas Garden Club Member of the Year at the fall convention in Abilene. Along with the long overdue recognition for her service to TGC and District V she was presented with an engraved silver Revere bowl amid tears and smiles. Eleanor is a member of the Giddings Garden Club.

On behalf of all of the district members and your home club
Congratulations, Eleanor

State Convention Open to All

As a member of Texas Garden Clubs, Inc. you are invited and encouraged to attend the upcoming state convention in Tyler, April 19-23. You probably think to yourself – it doesn't really pertain to you – but you are mistaken. No one is totally content with the full TGC package – so I urge you to get acquainted with the structure of our organization at the policy level. Knowing the “whys and wherefores” makes it so much easier to “pitch” and/or “explain” state objectives if you understand their foundation. Every club should send their club president to ensure your club is represented and in full knowledge of what transpires on your behalf at state.

District V has over the last five or so years, marked an increase in overall attendance and we invite all clubs to join us at the state convention. We make an effort to sit together whenever possible at meetings and events to show our unity and strength. It is not all business but a great deal of fun and camaraderie.

You do not necessarily have to attend the entire convention (although we encourage you too) bring a fellow club member and share a room for the awards night or the installation. There will be informative symposiums/workshops, a tour, great food and fellowship. We invite you to join the District V Delegation in Tyler in April. Check out additional information on the following pages.

Tyler Junior College "Apache Belles" will give a short performance that evening. After the "Belles" the presentation of the awards, which everyone is anxiously awaiting, will be given. Club members, plan to be there to celebrate or congratulate.

Day 3, Tuesday, April 21st The Environmental Consultants are hosting the breakfast on Tuesday. Each table will have herbs as decorations. The Environmental Consultants are selling the plants to raise money for their scholarship.

You don't want to miss lunch on Tuesday. An "uncommon comedy" team will be here to entertain and make us laugh. That afternoon buses will take attendees to Tyler Junior College for a campus tour of the new Center for Earth & Space Science Education, the Ina Brundrett Azalea Garden and Arbor Day ceremony.

Day 4, Wednesday, April 22nd Do you know about Keyhole Gardening? That is the subject of the program at Wednesday's breakfast and our speaker is Doug McKelvey, son of Carol Moore, State President Elect for 2015-2017.

The installation of Officers for 2015-2017 will be the highlight of our week. Pionette Garden Club, Palestine, is hosting a reception for our new officers and everyone is invited to join them in congratulating these ladies who will be leading our organization for the next two years.
